Company Overview

NANGMANSA is a social enterprise that wants to make local culture ecosystem where youth culture planners and artists coexist and to build a variety of culture consumption structures within the communities. We plan and create many cultural contents that youth culture planners and artists in their communities can coexist, such as performances, exhibitions, festivals and education. Also, we always consider how people can consume those contents in their local communities. Our aim is to create a virtuous cycle that increases profit from the content and use that profit to make another content.

We sell:

- contents with our messages and stories;
- goods using local specialties; and
- products related to cultural arts.
