Company Overview

We are striving to transition to a company producing high value-added products, not a mere food manufacturer, and increase rural income through convergence between the farming industry and high-tech industry. To this end, we have discovered functional materials that utilize agriculture and life resources. We use raw functional health materials with high industrial values, including bitter melon and Moringa. As such, we are a producer of processed agricultural functional health foods with guaranteed pharmacological effects and stability that can contribute to the promotion of national health.
