Company Overview

Alchemy Co., Ltd. is a start-up company involving researchers majoring in pharmacology and food nutrition at Hallym University's bone aging institute and regional innovation center. We are developing health functional products by discovering functional food and medicine materials. 'SupraGut' is a lacto-bacillus product developed using the best combination of strains and vitamins based on the advice of local medical experts in India, along with our partner company Bifido Co., Ltd. It has been locally proven to be very effective. We are carrying out product improvement, new product development, continuous monitoring, and expansion of export scopes through excellent cooperation networks with experts in related research fields.
